

Burnt-out bulbs? Snarled strands? Letting them go for newer LEDs? Don't toss your old holiday lights in the trash—they can be recycled. But please, don't put them into your recycling bin. Find a drop-off location operated by Southeast Enterprises. Your strands will be dismantled by individuals with disabilities and recycled. Lights will be accepted at drop-off locations until January 11, 2019.

Think outside the box when it comes to gifts this holiday season and help your family and friends create memories, not trash:

- Shop thrift stores, antique stores, or online to find a unique used gift.
- Give an experience: gift cards, tickets, memberships.
- Give to their favorite cause.

This year, you can reduce waste and still throw a great holiday party! Use durable tableware (dishes, cups, utensils, napkins, tablecloths, etc.), recycle cans and bottles, and compost food waste. For more holiday waste reduction tips, visit Don't Waste The Holidays.

Time to clean up? Save the tissue paper, boxes, bags and bows and reuse next year. Recycle plain wrapping paper and greeting cards. Do not recycle cards that have plastic components, glitter, or that make sound. Ribbons and foil/plastic coated wrapping paper go in the trash.
