

Hosting a Super Bowl party? Recycle cans and bottles, use durable tableware (dishes, cups, utensils, napkins, tablecloths), and compost food waste and food-related paper waste. For more information on recycling, visit RecycleSpot.org.

All aseptic food and beverage containers (milk, juice, soup, broth, wine, etc.) are accepted at area recycling centers and in your curbside bin. For more information on recycling, visit RecycleSpot.org.

Do you put items in your recycling bin for any of these reasons?

- It has a recycling symbol or label on it.
 - You are unsure whether it is recyclable.
 - You hope it's recyclable.
 - You know it's not recyclable, but hope that somewhere down the line someone will recycle it.
- Your intentions are good, but you're a "wishful recycler". Only put items in your bin that are accepted by your hauler. For more information on recycling, visit RecycleSpot.org.
